

CURRENT SWELL

Renowned for their electrifying live shows, Current Swell's performances are where their heart and soul truly shine. Often described by devoted fans as "a church of rock 'n' roll," their concerts are a cathartic blend of intensity, joy, and connection. With the return of founding member Louis Sadava on bass, the band's sound has reached new heights, as fresh and urgent as ever, yet infused with nostalgia for longtime listeners.

Current Swell returns, recharged and rejuvenated, with their latest EP, Peacekeeper, released on November 22, 2024. Produced by the legendary Gus van Go (The Beaches, Arkells, Metric), Current Swell is back and better than ever. The new songs showcase their evolution both personally and musically, capturing the camaraderie and joy of a band that lives to make music together. With a collection of new singles on the horizon for 2025, they're not just making a return, they're reaffirming their place as one of the most beloved forces in modern rock. As they prepare to hit the road this spring, performing new music alongside fan-favorite anthems, they are ready to bring down the house with their trademark energy and unforgettable performances.
